Where Canada Should Emulate Britain

In a recent article in this column the opinion was expressed that during 1924 the people of Canada should vigorously attack the problem of debt reduction, and that the effort should include all Governments and individuals. Many people have learned by bitter experience just how great a millstone around their necks is a burden of debt. The resulting worry has undermined their health, handicapped their efforts, and made otherwise assured progress impossible. And what is true of individuals is equally true of Governments and nations if people would only fully realize it.

The imperative necessity of boldly facing and tackling the problem of debt reduction in Canada is emphasized by a recent newspaper despatch from Ottawa giving Canada's not debt on December 31st last as $2,415,538,100, an increase during the year of $3,041,949. That is to say, five years after the close of the war, Canada's national debt, instead of being reduced, is still increasing.

It is a favorite excuse for present heavy taxation, we are paying for the war, and that when so many thousands paid with their lives and in crippled bodies and impaired health, we should not object to paying with our dollars. Canadians, almost without exception, are willing and ready, even anxious, to pay for the war. But how can we be said, with a still increasing debt five years after the war, we are paying for the war? True, we are paying over one hundred millions a year interest on the war debt and some tens of millions more annually in pensions and re-establishment of soldiers, and to that extent are paying for the war. But this is not enough, because the national burden is not being reduced but is being carried on indefinitely into the future.

In other words, despite our heavy taxation, we are not paying one cent towards reduction of the war debt. On the contrary, further increases in the debt only prove that we are not even paying our way under peace conditions. The imposition of taxes has reached a point where they constitute a real obstacle to further development and industrial and business expansion which the Dominion so badly needs. Not additional taxation, therefore, but drastic reduction in expenditures is called for.

Contrast what Canada is doing with what has already been accomplished in Great Britain. During the first fiscal year after the war, 1919-20, Britain's revenue amounted to £1,262,000,000 while expenditures totalled £1,665,000,000. Four years later, 1922-23, the revenue was £2,140,000,000 and expenditures £2,182,000,000. Thus in four years Britain's revenue declined about one-third, due in part to lowering of taxation, but expenditures was cut down by one-half, a very striking accomplishment. But Britain is not satisfied and further economies are being introduced.

The United States is likewise steadily reducing its war debt and is now contemplating important reductions in taxation.

It is high time Canada followed the example of these other English-speaking countries. It has been argued in defence of the new six per cent sales tax which went into effect in Canada on January 1, that it is to pay for the war. If this is true, then why not set aside the proceeds of this tax in a special debt redemption fund and not allow it into the general revenues of the Dominion? It would be paid much more cheerfully if the people of Canada saw its beneficial effects year by year in a reduction of the principal amount of their war debt.

In preparing the estimates annually, the Finance Minister always includes an amount to cover interest charges on the national debt. The payment of such interest is a first charge on the revenues of the Dominion. In like manner, it would now seem advisable to include a fairly substantial amount in the estimates for payment on account of the principal amount of the national debt, and to pay that amount off without any failure. Such annual payments on principal would operate to reduce interest charges, and as interest payments were reduced the amount paid annually on principal could and should be increased, thus retiring the debt at an ever-increasing rate.

In order to make this possible, current national expenditures should be vigorously attacked and reduced to a point where these payments on debt account could be made. Only when Canada adopts some such method can it truly be said that we are at last paying for the war. Until such a policy is adopted, and strictly adhered to, Canada is not getting anywhere, the Dominion is not even "marking time," but is getting a little deeper into debt every year.

Where Londoners Are Born

Out of Every Three Persons Living in London One Is Country-Born

Somebody has been investigating the birthplace of residents in London. He announces that out of every three persons now living in London proper, one is country-born; that is, about a million and a half of the city's population are not "natives." About one in four were born in the neighboring counties of Middlesex, Essex, Kent, and Surrey, Kent having sent us 100,000 and Surrey 110,000 persons. There is a general impression that there are as many Scots in London as in Edinburgh, but as a matter of fact the town has only 50,000 Scots, as against 54,000 Irish. All the British dominions overseas have contributed together about 35,000 people; and about three per cent, of those who live in the metropolis are foreigners.

HEADACHES FOR WEEKS

They Soon Disappear After Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

Every woman, at times, finds the routine of housework irksome. But how much more difficult are the daily tasks of the home to the woman who is nervous and rundown? She prepares meals for the family, but has no appetite for food. What she does eat distresses her, headaches and dizziness follow, there is a fluttering of the heart, and the complexion becomes pale. In cases of debility of this kind building up the blood is generally effective. By improving the quality of the blood and increasing its quantity, the nervous system is carried to the shattered nerves. The appetite invariably improves and gradually the exhausted system is toned up and the whole outlook of life is brightened. Mrs. Geo. Grant, R.R. No. 1, Markdale, Ont., tells for the benefit of others the great benefit Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were to her in a rundown condition. She says:—"If anyone can strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I feel I can. For over four years I had been troubled with my nerves, and for weeks at a time I would suffer terribly with headaches. My blood was very thin, I had no appetite, could hardly go about. I was afraid to stay alone in the house as I feared something would happen to me. Finally I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they have made me a new woman, as I may say. The picture of health I have increased in weight, the headaches come no more, and my nerves are as good as ever they were. Before I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills life was a burden; now I enjoy living, and I hope some other woman will take courage from my experience, for I feel sure that what this medicine did for me it can do for others."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FIFTY MILLION INCREASE IN DEPOSITS REPORTED BY ROYAL BANK OF CANADA

Bank Makes Remarkable Progress in Past Fiscal Year. Position Further Strengthened by Holdings of Short Term Securities. Earnings Well Maintained.

A gain of fifty millions in deposits, liquid assets of approximately 50 per cent and cash amounting to no less than 28 per cent. of liabilities to the public are among the outstanding features of a remarkably strong statement which The Royal Bank of Canada is forwarding to its shareholders for the fiscal year ending November 30th. A $50,000,000 gain in deposits is really phenomenal under conditions that prevailed during the past year, and must be accepted as unmistakable testimony of the confidence that is everywhere placed in this strong Canadian banking institution. What will make such a large gain still more satisfactory from the shareholders' standpoint is that owing to the general character of the business done by the bank there are no especially large deposits of any nature.

The general business of the bank continues to show an expanding tendency. Total assets now $58,358,564, as compared with $49,353,366 for the previous year, or a gain of about $9,000,000. Liquid assets are $23,125,474, as compared with $16,048,331, while cash on hand amounts to $8,164,539, against $7,193,929 a year ago. In the liquid assets a number of other large increases are shown, the principal being a gain in short term government securities now stand at $23,125,474, up from $12,224,224, and Canadian, Municipal and British, Foreign and Colonial Government securities, stand at $11,500,362, against $7,601,257 a year ago. Call loans total $4,272,374, compared with $48,010,000 last year.

Larger Business Handled
In the many fields of industry and commerce served by the bank there has evidently been a demand for increased accommodation. This is reflected in a gain in current loans, which stand at $24,721,947 against $24,237,776. During the year the business done by the Dominion Government of $11,461,750, reported a year ago, has been entirely paid off.

Growth in Deposits
In the large gain of $50,000,000 in deposits it is to be noted that those in the Savings Department now amount to $11,759,127, up compared with $17,588,385 an increase of no less than $44,162,246 for the year.

Earnings Well Maintained
The savings for the year were well maintained, profit having amounted to $2,099,114. This compares with $2,385,469 in the previous year. The profit added to the balance carried forward from the preceding year brought the total amount available for distribution up to $2,604,530. This was distributed as follows:

Dividends and bonuses to shareholders	$1,356,000
Fund	100,000
Appropriation to Reserve	400,000
Reserve for Note Circulation	475,000
ment Taxes, including war
leaving an amount to be carried forward	$1,069,534
at the end of the previous year.

Possibilities Of Pottery Making As An Important Addition To The Industries Of Canada

Until comparatively recently no plant industry was maintained in Canada. This condition, however, has been overcome by the establishment of a pottery at Oshawa, Ontario, and it is reported that another plant is to be operated at Port Hope, Ontario. The Oshawa plant is turning out 60,000 to 75,000 pieces per week of tableware and art pottery, using largely Canadian raw materials.

Stoneware and other heavy domestic pottery, such as teapots, mixing bowls, etc., is made at St. John, N.B.; Sherbrooke, Que.; Hamilton, Ontario; and Medicine Hat, Alberta.

Pottery includes many varieties of ware and from different kinds of clay. The common flowerpot of the gardener is the simplest kind of pottery made in quantity, and the unglazed pottery of the European and Asiatic peasant and Indian pottery are examples of simple ware made for everyday use, very often from the commonest brick clay. Porcelain or china is at the other extreme in the ceramic scale, and this class of pottery is made from the finest white burning kaolin, with which other ingredients are mixed.

There are several types of pottery between these extremes, but in a general way they can be grouped into two classes—those which have a vitrified, or non-absorbent body, and those having a soft body which is more or less porous. The latter require to be covered with a glaze, or enamel, in order to render them watertight, but vessels of the first type may be left unglazed and still hold water. Modern pottery, however, is nearly always finished with a glaze, or enamel, whether the body is porous or vitreous.

The Mines Branch of the Department of Mines has carried out a number of investigations of the clays of Canada, and has reported upon the suitability of these for the manufacture of pottery and earthenware. Some of these goods and the varieties of clays entering into their composition are as follows:

Porcelain Ware.—This class of ware is made from the finest white kaolin, after it has been thoroughly washed to clear it of quartz, mica and other impurities. The kaolin is mixed with ball clay, flint and feldspar. The kaolin gives the body its pure white color, the ball clay serves as a bond and makes the wet body more plastic. The feldspar has a fluxing action, that makes the burned ware hard and impervious, and the flint makes the ware somewhat porous so that a glaze may be applied. The mixture of these materials is fired at a high temperature, glazed and refired at a lower temperature. Some porcelains, such as electrical porcelain, are glazed before firing, thus accomplishing the work of two firings in one.

Stoneware Pottery.—Articles for domestic use, like crocks, jugs, mixing bowls, teapots, etc., are generally made from stoneware which burns to a dense body of extreme hardness, varying in color from nearly white, to dark grey. A great deal of the so-called art pottery is made from stone ware clays.

White Earthenware.—The heavier kind of tableware, known by various trade names, as white earthenware, frontons, china, and white granite ware, are made from mixtures of white burning clay and finely ground quartz and feldspar, burned to a fairly dense but porous body and covered with a clear glaze. A great variety of ornamental pottery is made of the white earthenware body covered with colored glazes.

Colored Earthenware.—There is a great variety of pottery made from natural impure clays, which burn to colors ranging from light buff to deep red. Most of these clays are soft and low in silica. If burned to too high a temperature, consequently the body remains porous after firing, and is then covered with glazes and enamels, and refired.

Stoneware clays are sparingly distributed in Canada and are seldomable in Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan. This type of clay is generally very smooth and plastic in the natural state, and the color ranges from dark gray to almost white.

Ball clays are highly plastic, finegrained clays, which burn to a white color, but in the raw state they are dark colored, sometimes approaching black. It is one of the ingredients used in compounding bodies for making white earthenware, white ware, electric porcelain, etc. There is a great variety in composition in the different ball clays, but none have been found in Canada, except among the great variety of white clays in Southern Saskatchewan.

The name, blue clay, is often used in describing certain clays which are of a lead grey color, but the name is misleading and has no significance, as a host of clays of widely different properties have a lead grey, or bluish color, in the raw state.

Commercial kaolin, or china clays, are residual clays derived from a rock composed mostly of feldspar, or containing little or no iron oxide. Crude kaolin is mostly prepared for the pottery industry by washing, in order to free it from impurities, generally quartz grains. The washed kaolin is known by the name, china clay.

Britain's Imports Of Butter and Cheese

Canada Sends Less Butter to Britain Than Previous Year

Of the 2,562,571 long hundredweights of cheese imported by Great Britain in the ten months ending October 31, 1922, Canada supplied 740,634 hundredweights, New Zealand 212,346 hundredweights, and the United States 39,699 hundredweights. Of 4,378,227 hundredweights of butter imported by Great Britain in the same period Canada supplied 52,764 hundredweights, Denmark 1,555,785 hundredweights, New Zealand 955,612 hundredweights, Australia 450,279 hundredweights, the Argentine Republic 329,781 hundredweights and the United States 18,575 hundredweights. Of ten individual countries supplying butter to the motherland, Canada was ninth and the United States tenth; but there was the unusually large amount of 55,392 hundredweights supplied by countries not specified. Canada's contribution of butter was 116,000 hundredweights less in the ten months this year than in the same period last year.

Expansion Of Dairying Industry Outstrips Any Other Phase Of Agriculture In Dominion

Expect To Handle

40,000,000 Bushels

Alberta Wheat Pool Reports Doing a Big Business

According to Chester M. Elliott, provincial manager of the Alberta Wheat Pool, the organization handled approximately 1,500 cars of wheat a week during December. This was an increase of 200 cars a week as compared with November. Since the pool started business on October 29, the pool has handled approximately ten thousand cars of wheat. At the end of the first month's operations, Mr. Elliott estimated that the pool had not done more than 15 per cent. of the business it would do during the present season. He expects the pool will handle forty million bushels of the 1923 crop. There is yet nearly two-thirds of that amount to be delivered.

Only about 54,000 of the more than 151,000 acres of known oil lands in Mexico are being developed.

The manner in which dairying in Canada has expanded in the last twenty years' outstrips any other phase of Dominion farming, says a special article in the New York Times. The production of butter compared between the years 1906 and 1922, shows that the output has increased by nearly 70 per cent. and the value by 50 per cent.

The number of dairies in operation in Canada in 1922 was 2,111, comprising 1,161 creameries, 1,565 cheese factories and 28 condenseries, according to a dairying survey made by the Canadian Pacific Railway in which the total quantity of creamery butter made in Canada in 1922 is shown to be 147,752,774 pounds, valued at $51,530,790, being the largest shown for any year in the history of the industry. The total quantity of cheese made in the same year was 126,579,473 pounds, valued at $22,967,106. The total value of condensed products was $6,839,232, and of miscellaneous products $28,451,172.

Quebec occupies the lead in the industry in a number of factories with 1,728 as against Ontario's 1,052. It also leads the Dominion in butter production with 52,529,344 against Ontario's 39,679,961. These two provinces pre-eminently constitute the dairying area of Canada, accounting for more than 70 per cent. of the butter output and more than 95 per cent. of the cheese output.

The value of the imports of butter, cheese and condensed milk in 1922 amounted to only $2,239,871. On the other hand, exports are substantial and growing each year. In 1922, the quantity of Canadian butter exported was 12,664,603 pounds, valued at $8,915,305, the largest quantity to leave the country since 1906. The quantity of cheese exported was 120,177,200 pounds, valued at $21,635,739. Milk condensed, canned and preserved shipped from Canada had a value of $2,124,590.

Increases are continually being recorded in the exports of butter, and markets have been secured abroad without undue trouble on account of the high quality of the Dominion product. This now goes in quantities to the United Kingdom, Belgium, Bermuda, British Guiana, British Honduras, Barbadoes, Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago; China, Cuba, France, Hong Kong, Newfoundland, St. Pierre and Miquelon, and in smaller amounts to several other countries. Approximately 17,500,000 pounds went to the United Kingdom last year and 2,500 pounds came to the United States.

Nothing, however, states the bulletin, has so summed up Canada's position of eminence in the dairy field as her triumph at the National Dairy Show held recently at Syracuse, N.Y.

"At this show the best dairy cattle that could be procured in Eastern Canada came into competition with the superior herds of all the States of the Union," continues the bulletin, and a greater aggregate of cattle than has ever been drawn together in a similar event on the continent. A total of 1,229 dairy cattle were entered and when it is realized that in many cases only one animal was entered by one breeder, it will be seen that the pick of the herds of America were present to compete for the prizes. For the purpose of the show the provinces of Canada were given the standing of States, and Ontario and Quebec had its "state herds" in the competitions.

"The results of the competitions were unprecedented and gratifying to the fullest extent from Canada's point of view. In addition to carrying off a goodly number of first and second prizes and other prizes in the various classes, Canadian herds won the Junior championship for bulls in Holstein and the senior and grand championship in the female section for Ayrshires.

"The State herd award for Holsteins went to the collection of animals of that breed representing Ontario. The similar award for Jerseys also went to the province of Ontario. The best Ayrshire herd at the show was adjudged to be that from the province of Quebec. Thus the premier honors in the three great dairy breeds were brought home to Canada.

NATIONAL PARKS ARE GAME SANCTUARIES

The National Parks of Canada are a haven for wild life; where guns and hunting dogs are forbidden and where the animals have come to look upon man as their friend rather than as their destroyer. As a result wild animals are increasing in the National Parks of Canada and the graceful deer, the lordly bison and the always interesting bear live at peace in their natural habitat without molestation.

At Jasper National Park in Alberta, which is 4,900 square miles in extent and the largest of Canada's National Parks, bears, deer, moose, mountain sheep and goats abound, and the visit or finds also great numbers of smaller animals such as beaver, squirrel and others which are becoming quite tame since they realize that they are protected.

At Watnaght, on the main line of the Canadian National Railway, east of Edmonton, there exists one of the finest demonstrations of the feasibility of game conservation, for there, in the buffalo park are some 4,000 animals, the growth from a herd of 713 which was purchased some sixteen years ago by the Canadian Government and allowed to multiply in peace. So great has been the development of the herd that last fall 2,000 of the surplus animals had to be slaughtered and in the spring another 2,000 young buffalo are to be moved into the northern hinterland and allowed to roam at will there under conditions where they also will be safe from ruthless hunters.

In addition to buffalo, the government has at Watnaght large numbers of elk and yak, which are fast becoming unknown animals except to the adventurous hunter who was prepared to go miles beyond the limits of civilization, and these animals also are multiplying in the conditions under which they are being kept.

Visitors to Jasper Park at the present time find caribou, brown and black bears very numerous. If they go far enough afield they may reach the haunts of the grizzly, still within the park limits. Deer may be found browsing within a stone's throw of Jasper Park Lodge, the bungalow camp hotel operated by the Canadian National Railway and caribou are reported to be becoming more plentiful year by year. The "Alphons" mountain sheep grazes peacefully along the lower slopes of the great mountains which rise on every side, while the more numerous mountain goat may be seen on the higher slopes, making his way over precarious footing and seeming to challenge the camera enthusiast to climb up and include his picture in the collection.

By means of the sanctuaries which have been given to various animals, the younger Canadians growing up today can now and in the future see for themselves, specimens of various big game animals which a few years ago were threatened with destruction. And since Canada was almost the last native haunts of many of these, such as the buffalo, the educational value alone of the sanctuaries is great. The experiments already made have shown that such animals as the bison can readily be propagated in captivity and in their case also, the revenue derived by the government from the sale of buffalo meats, hides and heads from the animals which it has become necessary to kill, will, it is estimated, go a long way towards paying for the cost of the experiment and the upkeep of the National Parks.

"Do you ever think," I ventured, "that Jean's depth of character would perhaps be wasted if she were to marry someone whom she would never need to help?"

Mrs. Mowbray looked at me sharply, the little brown vein of a woman that she is.

"You've hit it exactly," she admitted. "Jean has been mothering young things and weak things and sick things all her life, and that is where Jim gets her—and I wouldn't mind so much if I were sure of him, but what I'm afraid of is that she'll get fond of him and then feel badly when he changes."

"Jim is quite a bit older than Jean, and he is neither weak nor sick," I objected. "He certainly is not a millionaire just now, but Murray always says that he and Bob are so thrifty and hard-working that they cannot miss success. And perhaps he is so changeable as you think."

Mrs. Mowbray shook her head. "I could never bear red hair," she said, "and that tongue of his! he'd talk the birds off the trees. Give me a quiet man every time."

"Mrs. Mowbray does not welcome competition," laughed Murray when I repeated the conversation to him.

But I, while I doubted Mrs. Mowbray's tact, could understand her. Any mother can, I think. That she had Jean's welfare at heart was obvious, but she was not wise enough to keep her opinion to herself and her openly expressed distrust of Jim prepared Jean's mind for the doubts that cropped up later on.

My brought up a new friend, Mr. Bonar, the student missionary who worked so hard to bring together the unchurched people of the district. His was a mixed and scattered parish indeed. In the village were Presbyterians, some Methodists, two Anglicans, several Lutherans, one Roman Catholic, one Buddhist and two Jews, while in the surrounding country conditions were much the same. But Mr. Bonar had a way of reaching all sorts and conditions of men, and though not all went to the services that were held each Sunday in the Spruce Creek school, all were on the best of terms with "the Padre," even the Catholic Gagnons and the Buddhist as Sling, and there were none but were glad to see his bucketing pony turn in at the gate.

Mr. Bonar's greatest wish, speaking of temporary things, was to see a church in Spruce Creek. He had "wangled" a large corner lot on Main Street from David Wilson the year before and started a subscription list, hoping that in the spring work would be begun on the building. But last year's poor crop had made it impossible for him to ask for money.

"Two-thirds of the people in the district don't know how to turn to meet their payments," he said to Murray and me one day. "I simply haven't the heart to ask them for anything. In fact, I'd be jolly glad if I could give them some help instead of begging from them."

The following Sunday, Murray returned to the subject as we drove home after church. The school had been crowded, many people, like ourselves, having driven in a long distance to be present, and we had listened to what Mother taught me to call a Sermon—a simple, helpful, hopeful, heart-to-heart talk that gave one something to hold to throughout the week.

"We are going to build that church," said Murray suddenly.

"But how can we?" I asked. "No one has any money."

"No, but we have time and materials, ain't we?" Murray interrupted. "If a suburban congregation in Winnipeg can build its own church I don't see why we shouldn't." I suggest to Bonar that we find out how much assistance we may count on from the Home Mission Committee, and then we'll get to work. We can have the winter and have it sown during the winter, get in our stone and lime, and have begun to build as soon as seedling is over next spring. We'll not need a very big place and a few days work from each man will soon see with a church that will have cost us nothing in actual cash, except for the materials that we have to get out from the city. Bonar will be ordained next spring, and nothing could be better for Spruce Creek than to get him to us so permanently, surely among us all we can afford to pay our share of his salary—you know, I suppose, that an Augustinian Charge is what an Augustinian Charge is."

"Yes," I replied meekly. "You mean that the Home Mission Committee is responsible for a part of the minister's salary."

Murray nodded absent-mindedly, and I knew that he was far ahead of me, settling the details of his scheme. I never dare to tell him that Mr. Bonar spoke of him to me afterwards as "a power for good in the community" for Murray failed to be probed in set phrases. It was comparatively safe to tell him that he had a good head on his shoulders, but "a power for good," he would have been sure to say, was laying it on a bit too thick. Even I had to be careful in how much I said, but Murray felt most deeply did not easily come to the surface, and he would have made very uncomfortable had he been given publicly the credit that was undoubtedly his.

I have always admired the way in which Murray's mind works. He had all his suggestions in a form as clear and compact as his monthly balance sheets used to be. The upshot of it was that the next Sunday it was requested that all interested in the erection of a church should remain after the service, and a committee was formed to gather information regarding the assistance we might depend upon.

Mr. Bonar's enthusiasm had warranted for people who could not have given money were more than willing to give what they had. The land was already provided, Mr. Wright promised to cut the rough lumber free of charge and to get the other materials for us at cost, and one of his men who was a mason volunteered to build the foundation and the chimney if some "lumpy men" would help him. And when man after man had offered wood or stone or labor, Mrs. Wilson stood up and in her shy way suggested the formation of a Ladies' Aid Society.

"Maybe we can raise a little money for furnishings," she said. "There will be the stoves to get and lamps, and that seems like woman's work. And we can help with the painting and kaftanning inside."

As the news of what we were planning to do spread through the district, offers of help came from unexpected quarters.

Gwen Severn, who had not seen the inside of a church in Canada so far as I knew, said she would love to embroider the altar-cloth. Mr. Kristiansen, gratified because his children were being taught in Sunday School, gave five dollars, and then showed Murray and Mr. Macdonald some of the fine wood-carving that was made at a shop and asked if there would be anything of that sort to do in the church. And Mr. Gagnon, professing his remarks with a shrug and the comment that "This is not Quebec," said that he and Narcisse could help with the plastering.

It was Mrs. Caradale who came to the rescue with a brilliant suggestion that enabled us to accept Mr. Kristiansen's offer, and now, though the

Price Changes of Dr. Chase's Medicines

By increasing the contents of the boxes the cost to the user remains unchanged

THIS revision of prices affects only three of Dr. Chase's Medicines—the Kidney-Liver Pills, Nerve Food and Catarrh Powder.

In spite of the constantly increasing cost of doing business ever since Dr. Chase's Medicines were placed on the market many years ago there has been no change in the prices of these three medicines to the consumer.

It has now become absolutely necessary to make some changes, but this has been worked out in such a way that the cost to the user remains the same.

The slogan for Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills will therefore remain "One pill a dose—One cent a dose," while the price will be 35 cents instead of 25 the contents of the box will be 35 instead of 25 pills as formerly.

The same applies to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which will sell at 60 cents a box instead of 50 cents, since the contents of the box is now 60 pills instead of 50.

With the exception of Dr. Chase's Catarrh Powder, which is now 35 cents a box, the prices of Dr. Chase's other medicines remain unchanged.

Dr. Chase's Almanac has now been mailed and distributed to practically every home in Canada, 1,550,000 copies, if you did not receive yours kindly advise us and we shall mail you a copy free of charge. Edmanston Bates & Co., Limited, Dr. Chase Building, Toronto.

church is not yet finished, we have our pulpit ready—a plain oak table it is, square and strong, beautifully carved in, and then stained and waxed.

I was, at first, rather at a loss about Gwen's altar-cloth. She was so eager to help, and eager too, I suppose, to be in the thick of what the rest of us were doing, and was very much put out to learn that there was no altar in a Presbyterian church, much less any place for an altar cloth.

"It will be like the chapels at home, I suppose," she said with her customary tact, "an ugly little place, as bare as a larder."

Possibly several of my ancestors stirred in their graves at that point, but I was reckless—Gwen's sometimes crudely expressed love of beauty was I had always felt, the due to the finer side of her nature. And so I took it upon myself to tell her that I was sure a table-runner would be very suitable for our church, and greatly appreciated by Mr. Bonar.

Among my stored-away treasures I found a piece of cream embroidery linen that was, we agreed, the very material needed, and Gwen went home with her head full of ideas that she would not so much as hint to me. I greatly fear that for the next two weeks her house was neglected, for Gwen is a real artist insofar that she can never do more than one thing at a time, but the result of her handiwork was more beautiful than I had believed possible. She had dyed the linen a soft brown color, and then embroidered it in a conventional semi-eclectic design in brown and black and dull blue, with touches of gold thread blending all together.

"That gold is all right, isn't it?" she asked me anxiously. "It is just a little bit that I had left over from the last piece I did at home and I thought it would look nice with those colors."

U.F.M. DECIDE ON WHEAT POOL FOR 1924 CROP

Winnipeg.—With but three hands raised in protest out of about 400 registered delegates, the United Farmers of Manitoba decided at their annual convention, to proceed forthwith with the organization of a voluntary contract wheat pool to handle the 1924 crop. Delegates to the convention of Unaffiliated Farm Women, meeting separately at the time, passed the resolution unanimously.

The resolution, which was submitted on behalf of the directors, reads as follows: "That this convention goes on record as approving of a voluntary contract pool for Manitoba on the general basis now operated in Alberta, looking to the formation of an inter-provincial selling agency, and, further, we recommend that this convention instruct the board to proceed immediately to complete organization."

Farm Implement Prices

Report Says Prices May Advance Owing to Cost of Production

Calgary.—The Calgary Herald says: Prices of farm machinery and implements and equipment will be advanced this season. The advance is estimated at present to be between five and ten per cent. Either the price must be advanced slightly, or the manufacturers of farm implements must go under the hammer, definitely state the larger dealers. Labor and the increased cost of raw materials are given as the principal reasons for the advance of prices.

Would Postpone Taking Of Liquor Referendum

Regina.—Postponement of a referendum on the liquor question for at least two years, continued and more rigid enforcement of the Saskatchewan Temperance Act in co-operation between provincial and federal authorities to prevent the illicit manufacture of liquor in the province and several amendments to provincial laws to tighten up the administration of the S.T.A., were among the requests preferred to the Saskatchewan Government by the executive of the Saskatchewan Prohibition League here.

Cox Favors League

Maintains Same Position on League of Nations as He Did Four Years Ago

Columbus, Ohio.—James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and Democratic candidate in the 1920 presidential election, maintains the same position on the League of Nations as he did almost four years ago, when he made it the keynote of his campaign for election as chief executive of the United States.

He informed Ohio Democrats in unequivocal terms here at a dinner at which what were regarded as the opening blasts of the Democratic 1924 campaign in Ohio were sounded. Carrying the League of Nations theme throughout his address, he indicated he believed that the participation of the United States in foreign affairs is still as much a major issue as when he stumped the country in 1920. He gave no intimation, however, as to what his intentions might be in regard to the coming presidential campaign.

Something New On Menu

Buffalo Tongues and Tails to be Served on Dining Cars

Winnipeg.—Buffalo tongues and tails, one-time favored delicacy of the plainsman, and prepared by experienced chefs, will grace the menus of Canadian National transcontinental dining cars on and after January 15, it is announced here.

The entire output of tongues and tails from the famous herd at Wainwright, Buffalo Park, have been secured for exclusive use on C.N.R. dining cars, whose chefs will also serve buffalo steaks and roast buffalo ribs. Canadian National system hotels are also serving buffalo steaks around the province.

Two thousand surplus buffalo at Wainwright Park are being slaughtered this winter, and the meat from them is finding a ready market in Canadian and American cities.

Decline In Drug Traffic

More Stringent Penalties for Offenders Are Provided

Ottawa.—That the narcotic traffic in large cities, where it was on the increase for years, is the opinion expressed by officials of the federal health department, who support their contention by figures showing imports of narcotics for five years ending with 1923.

More stringent penalties for traffickers and addicts, provided for in an act of parliament passed last session, is credited by enforcement authorities with improving conditions by driving many of the small peddlers out of business and rehabilitating numberless victims.

Figures show that imports of cocaine fell from 12,333 ounces in the fiscal year 1915, to 3,308 in the fiscal year 1923; morphine from 20,057 in 1919 to 10,928 in 1923; and crude opium from 34,282 in 1919 to 1,372 in 1923.

Had A Weak Heart Was Very Nervous For Three Years

Miss Jessie Peterson, Zealandia, Sask., writes:—"I wish to let you know how much good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me."

For nearly three years I was very badly run down, had a weak heart, and was so nervous that sometimes I would almost faint away. I heard of many people who had recommended your Heart and Nerve Pills, so I decided to give them a trial. Firm Policy Needed To Stamp Out Disease

Leicester, Eng.—The policy of the ministry of agriculture in the wholesale slaughtering of animals infected with foot and mouth disease was endorsed at a conference held here by representatives of many counties. Viscount Deburgh said isolation of affected animals had only resulted in further outbreaks of the disease and the expense had been as great as that of slaughtering the animals.

Adopt Alternative Vote

Will Introduce Legislation to Change System in Manitoba

Winnipeg.—Adoption of the principle of the alternative vote in single-member constituencies, where there are more than two candidates contesting the seat, will form the substance of legislation which the Manitoba Government intends introducing during the session of the legislature, it was learned here.

In the last two general elections in Manitoba, there were numerous instances, where, in a contest with three or more candidates in the field, the elected representative of the constituency obtained only a minority of the votes cast.

Could Not Straighten His Back

Then Quebec Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. E. D. Tremblay is delighted with the results obtained by using Dodd's Kidney Pills. The sterling value of Dodd's Kidney Pills as a kidney remedy is shown by the following statement of Mr. E. D. Tremblay of this town.

"I have suffered for nearly six years from rheumatism and had kidneys and was not able to stand up straight. I took 2 boxes of your Dodd's Kidney Pills, and am now completely relieved of my trouble."

What Mr. Tremblay states is all that has ever been claimed for Dodd's Kidney Pills—that they are good for sick kidneys. It is astounding how some people will get on suffering day after day with aches and pains, rheumatism and backache. They suffer because they are not aware of the fact that they can get relief. Strengthen the kidneys, which are the source of the trouble and these pains vanish. Dodd's Kidney Pills act directly on the kidneys. They heal and strengthen them so that they do their full work of draining all the impurities out of the blood.

BRITISH HOUSE OPENING IS QUIET AND UNEVENTFUL

London.—The fifth parliament of the present reign opened in a quiet and uneventful manner, apart from some natural effervescence on the part of the Labor members, dated at the prospect of their party taking office, which only a few months ago appeared to be quite a distant prospect.

The re-election of John Henry Whitley as speaker of the new house was a foregone conclusion and therefore afforded no excitement.

Mr. Asquith was absent owing to illness. Mr. Lloyd George entered with but small recognition, and interest was centred elsewhere. The former premier, who heretofore had sat with his section of the Liberal party, signified complete Liberal unity by taking a seat on the opposition bench, next to the one usually occupied by Mr. Asquith.

There was a humorous occurrence as the members arose to follow the Black Rod into the House of Lords to hear the commission read for Parliament. Mr. Macdonald, as leader of the opposition, joined the prime minister, Mr. Baldwin, in the procession; whereupon a Laborite shouted: "Shake hands!" This the two leaders did amidst general cheering.

The new members of the house attracted much attention. The women Laborites abandoned their hats and took seats temporarily in the members' gallery. Lady Astor was not present, but the Conservative women had a representative in Mrs. Philipps. Mr. Winston Churchill was there, and next to her was the newly-elected Lady Terrington.

NEPTUNE TO VISIT WORLD CRUISERS

The certificate as shown above will be issued to all passengers aboard the Empress of Canada who appear before Neptune, as did those passengers on the Empress of France last year, who are shown in pictures 2 and 3.

When to travel upon the sea was to venture in greater danger it was usually thought safe by the voyagers to propitiate the god of the waters by making gift to him before setting sail, and oftentimes, when Neptune displayed his wrath at sea, human sacrifices were made to him. To our superstitious ancestors the son of Neptune and Ops had great power over the waves, especially those of the sea, and had therefore in his hand the welfare of all vessels and their human and other freight. The worship of Neptune was early introduced into Rome and July 23rd, "Neptunalia," was his feast.

As science reduced the terrors of the sea, and education and higher civilization erased the sometimes terrible superstitions from the mind of the world, so the worship of and sacrifices to Neptune ceased, but even to this day he is venerated by many Latin and Scandinavian sailors and no ship crosses the equator without some form of a burlesque performance in which those who are using their first "crossing" of the line are initiated into the mysteries of the deep.

The unique photograph reproduced above was taken aboard the Canadian Pacific "Empress of France" while on a "Round the World" cruise last year. Neptune occurred the great liner in the early morning of the day on which the "line" was crossed, and held court. He was attended by the Royal Harber and other high officials who assisted in the initiation ceremony. Most of the passengers were summoned to his august presence and were tried for their misdeeds, punishment or praise being awarded without favor. Those who produced evidence of having been "initiated" before were given a exempt from trial.
A year, when Neptune boards the Empress of Canada, which leaves New York on a Round the World cruise on January 23rd, his secretary will issue to all those who pass before the God of the Waters, certificates to that effect, which will be counter-signed by Captain S. Robinson, R.N.R., who commands the vessel, and which, besides being valuable souvenirs of the trip, will exempt the holder from further trial.

Notices.

Will the party who found an auto fender on the road near St. Mathew School early in December kindly leave same at Sun Office and get reward?

From the World's Edge

Letter From Arctic Mailed Four Years Ago Finds Owner.

Four years ago, a local Amundsen, the explorer, mailed a letter in the far north to a friend in Minneapolis. After various adventures the communication reached its destination a few days ago, bearing on its face an epic of the postal service at the world's edge.

Eskimo caribou and dog teams, who started with the letter, had succumbed to cold and starvation, and their mail pouches for nearly four years preserved by ice and snow until last summer, when a party of Russians discovered it. They sent the letter to Amundsen's home in Norway, where his brother, Leon, forwarded it to the Minneapolis destination.

Drives Asthma Before It. The smoke or vapor from Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy gives asthma no chance to linger. It eradicates the cause. Our experience with the relieving remedy shows how actual and positive is the success it gives. It is the result of long study and experiment and was not submitted to the public until its makers knew it would do its work well.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Other Mothers

Hemford, N. S.—"I am the mother of four children and I was so weak after my last baby came that I could not do my work and suffered for months until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began taking the Vegetable Compound my weakness has left me and the pain in my back has gone. I tell all my friends who are troubled with female weakness to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I think it is the best medicine ever sold. You may advertise my letter."—Mrs. GEORGE L. CHOUSS, Hemford, N. S.

My First Child

Glen Allen, Alabama.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me and after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and given me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial letter."—Mrs. IDA RYE, Glen Allen, Alabama.

THANKLESSNESS

Don't you love to hear the gentle voice of a child say, "Thank you?" Don't you like to see a girl or boy that feels and shows gratitude? Everything in Nature seems to have it! The birds twittering in the trees always seem to be chirping "Thanks." The flowers bordering the green lawn breathe out a fragrance that makes you glad, it must be the odor of thanks! The sun is so glorious and scatters its rays so brightly, I think if you could hear it speaking as it shines, you would hear it saying, "Oh, I am so thankful I have all this power of shining down these drops of sunlight!" When the rain sets the brown-brown grasses starting up into bright greenness, how thankful it must feel for its ability to refresh! I think even the wind is glad it can shake things up and scatter nasty germs and clean the air that people breathe!

All things bright and beautiful, All creatures great and small, All things wise and wonderful, The Lord God made them all. And I really believe there is not one that is not glad and thankful for being and doing!

Then keep up spirit, do not, unhappy and unattractive as the one that is thankful.

Shakespeare says: "Gratitude, thou marble-hearted fiend, More hideous in a child Than the sea-monster."

And again he says: "How sharper is it than a serpent's tooth To have a thankless child."

Once Jesus cured ten lepers, and you know what was a dreadful disease that little by little ate away the body and turned it into a rotting mass. And of the ten who were healed of that frightful trouble, only one came back to say "I thank you."

Isn't it a lovely sight to see the sweet spirit of a thankful heart saying "I thank you" to God who has done so much for you? Isn't it something, for appreciation just means putting a value on, and the Lord says, "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so."

Do you like to say "Thank you?" So say "Thank you!" Tell someone you are glad they did something for you! Everybody dislikes a girl or boy who is like a sponge, always soaking in.

Have a lovely flower come. At first it was only a dry-looking bulb. But it was put in nice clean water. In a class and soon beautiful white roots began to fill up the bottle; and one day the bulb was so glad that it was no longer a nasty earthy-looking brown bulb, but had graceful white roots, and a bud shooting out that it was in a splendid mood of thankfulness. And the poem was called a flower, and its name was Hyacinth!

We all love to see a thankful life. At home it makes the atmosphere so soft and helpful. At school it straightens wrinkles of the teacher and fills the room with light. With one such it acts like good oil in an automobile. It makes things go smoother.

And girls and boys, God likes it too! (To be continued)

Drill in Schools

Military training in the schools we think to be a very excellent thing, and we hope to see it more rather than less favored in our Ontario school system. It induces to discipline and self-control in boys, it benefits their health by the exercise they must take, and it gives them training which quite possibly may enable them to assist the public interest in any emergency in which the ordinary police forces of the country may be inadequate.—The Ottawa Journal.

Powerful Medicine.—The healing properties in six essential oils are concentrated in every bottle of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, forming one of the most beneficial treatments ever offered to the use of man. Many can testify as to its power in allaying pain, and many more can certify that they owe their health to it. Its wonderful power is not expressed by the small price at which it sells.

Was It a Proposal

She was inclined to be sentimental. He was nothing if not practical. "Would that you could tell me how to mend a broken heart," she said. "I have known of cases where it has been done by splicing," he replied.

Although mummified ages of ancient Egypt show evidence of rickets, no definite diseases at this disease has yet been found in the numerous human bodies examined from ancient graves of that land.

KEEP LITTLE ONES WELL IN WINTER

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are so changeable, one minute the next cold and stormy, the next a bright day to take the children out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. The consequences are often coughed up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are made worse by colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and give off colds, and by their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety. The Tablets are also used by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brookville, Ont.

A newspaper down in Maine, in telling of the death of a man through being struck by a railroad train, adds that "it will be remembered that he met with a similar accident a year ago." It is to be hoped that the habit which he happened to have contracted will not be continued.

United States trade with the British colonies, protectorate and dependencies has more than doubled since the beginning of the war.

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. An excellent preparation for this purpose is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfactory.

C.P.R. Rail Record

From the opening of the crop year, Sept. 1, to the official closing of navigation, Dec. 12, the Canadian Pacific Railways reported the heaviest marketing of grain since the inception of the road. Cars loaded by the company also created a record for the season, having numbered 116,222. Grain marketed topped the 200,000,000 bushel mark.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JANUARY 20

Moses Called to Deliver Israel

Golden Text.—By faith Moses, when he was grown up, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter; choosing rather to share ill treatment with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season. Hebrews 11:24,25.

Lesson.—Exodus 1:1 to 12:36. Devotional Reading.—Psalm 130.

The Text Explained and Illumined L. Moses the Shepherd, verse 1. For forty years Moses was a shepherd in the employ of Jethro, a priest of Midian, whose daughter he married. The mission of freeing his people seemed to be forgotten. The world had no need of him. He was not only ignored, but was forgotten. The gifts which he must have recognized in himself had seemingly no purpose. Both he and they were apparently to be thrown away. Keeping sheep was all he was fit for, and during the years of which we should call his prime he spent his time patiently. Moses in Midian is an example of the value of monotony. Waiting years can be years of gathering force. They can be years of gathering force because the inner life is being strengthened, or in reservoir, with creative strength. Only in solitude, or at least in quietude, can the mind be free to work as it pleases. The too early drains its resources, as Moses had been impelled to drain his, is comforted by the fact that work has begun. A restless life, frittered away on trivial things, can never be anything but a waste of time. The years in which men and women seem never to get beyond drudgery, but go on with undraining fatigue, often those in which the spirit is gathering impetus for further pushing on. (Hassell King).

In the course of his duties Moses led his flock to "the back of the wilderness," that is, to the wider part of the Peninsula of Sinai. In designating the points of the compass the Hebrews faced the east; the east was spoken of as in front, or before, and the west as the back, or behind. He found himself at Horeb, called here the mountain of God, the sacred mountain, either because here God especially manifested Himself to Moses, or in anticipation of the events recorded later in Exodus. "Modern men and women who reckon it unspiritual to call any place sacred because God is everywhere, may condemn themselves to finding him nowhere" (Pease).

It. Moses's initiation into the Fellowship and Purposes of the Holy and Consoling of God. Characteristic of the region where Moses found himself are the thorny acacias, and from one of these which was affane and yet was not consumed, God met and challenged Moses. "I will turn aside now and see thee," says the Lord, "why the bush is not burnt." It is Moses's thought, "It is good to come to the place of God's presence, however," observes Bishop Hall; "God may perhaps speak to thy heart, though thou comest but for novelty."

Earth's crammed with heaven, And every common bush afire with God, But only he who sees, takes off his shoes—

The rest sit around it and pluck blackberries" (Mrs. Browning).

"Our awakened mind is the first condition of transformed life. We cannot reason our way down to the life, for the mind is hopelessly asleep. God is barred out. The first thing to get a man to do is to pay attention to the signs of God's presence within him, or without him. The great reason why men do not find God is that they do not try to pay attention to his signs" (Giffie).

Minard's Liniment for Dandruff

"Minnie" said the teacher, "Who don't you wash your face? I can see what you had for breakfast this morning." Little Boy: "What was it?" Teacher: "Eggs." Little Boy: "Wrong, teacher; that was yesterday."

Excellent for Groupy Children.—When a child is suffering with groupy it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm, giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and chest, croup, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

Smug satisfaction with ourselves and conditions about us are the biggest obstacles to social progress. Selected.

In Honor of Capt. Cook

Placing a Monument on Pacific Coast to British and Spanish Seamen

On behalf of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada, the Indian Department has arranged a lease from the Indians of the 'Nootka' reserve of land for a monument to be erected to Captain Cook and the British and Spanish seamen of the 18th century on a spot just west of the village at Friendly Cove, west coast of Vancouver Island. There already is a monument to a small island off the village, erected in 1903 by the Washington University Historical Society.

Over Chin and Cheek Large and Red Was Discouraged.

The pimples I suffered from were scattered over my chin and cheeks. They were large and red and after a day or two they were covered over. They itched and when I scratched them the tops would come off and a wettery fluid would come from them. The trouble lasted several months and I was almost discouraged.

I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I had a marked change for the better, which was healed me. (Signed) Miss Edna Provost, Nonpareil Farm, Cluny, Alberta.

The annual meeting of the ratepayers of Stony Plain Consolidated S. D. held in the Town Hall Friday afternoon was of a very interesting nature, with a goodly crowd present. The annual statement was read by the secretary, and received some slight criticism. The voting which followed showed the former had won by a majority of 5 votes.
